location just outside the old capital of Bulgaria, Veliko Tarnovo. Please don't confuse this offer with shrubland or coppiced out woodland in remote locations in Bulgaria. This is a designated commercial forest that has hardwood trees up to 60 years old. Mostly oak, with other hardwood species. The forest is in 3 plots very close to each other at the same location: Lot 265052 - 14,300 sqm Lot 265048 – 3,500 sqm Lot 265042 – 11,100 sqm Total for sale: 28,900 sqm, which is 7.14 acres Pictures shown here were taken a few days ago and are from the forest being offered. We haven't done a tree count or calculated the cubic meters of hardwood timber available, but with a rough estimate of 400 trees an acre, that's 2800 trees. Forest management regulations require that a residual number of trees are left when an area is felled, but the majority could be harvested. The woodland is in an area in which commercial forestry is an important business. You can see from the picture of the area where the woodland is located, that the three lots for sale are adjacent to an area that was recently felled. Hardwood timber has traditionally been a recession resistant business in the UK and elsewhere; one that retains value. And because oak grows slowly and is of little planking value until at least 30 years old, supply is always constricted. For the armchair investor, it's also an ideal purchase as little involvement is needed. Your investment can be left to literally grow. And if you do decide to realize value by felling, this can be contracted to one of forest contractors/buyers in the area. The forest not only offers a real asset that grows in value, it also is in an area that is well worth a visit in its own right. Just 15 kms from the famous Veliko Tarnovo. This used to be the capital of Bulgaria and offers fascinating monuments and lively social scene. It's the area of Bulgaria with the highest proportion of foreign residents. The village by the woodland is called Gabrovtci and the road to it is in excellent condition. It's a clean and attractive place that at the time of our visit last week was having an artists convention. A lovely river runs along the base of the valley in which the woodland is located. Lovely place for walks and enjoyment of nature. In summary, this is a good quality hardwood woodland of over 7 acres in size in a beautiful location. A properly designated commercial forest land that is sold Freehold. We are an agency established in 2003 with long experience of helping foreigners acquire and maximize their investments in Bulgaria. Buyers can complete the purchase from the UK (at their cost) or visit Bulgaria by the end of the year to complete in person. Please just advise us of your preference. Bulgaria is an attractive location for investment. Prices are still well below those typical elsewhere in Europe. It has a pleasant climate of reliably warm summers and just a short and quite sunny winter. Growing conditions for hardwood trees is just about perfect. Its corporate and personal taxes are the lowest in Europe at just 10% flat. Spread your investment risk by diversifying into hardwood timber, for long term value.
